

We've all seen The Comic. We all know the names: XZ, Log4j, OpenSSH. What's to be done?

In reality, Open Source is like a restaurant: we eat first, then pay the bill. Our companies feast at the Open Source table year after year.

It's time to settle up.

Open Source Pledge is a consortium of companies who believe that Open Source maintainers should be paid in line with the value they provide.

Join us at OpenSourcePledge.com.

The Ask

1. Pay $2,000 or more per dev per year
2. Publish a report through our website

Contacts

Chad Whitacre
Head of Open Source
chadwhitacre@sentry.io

Michael Selvidge
Director of Communications
michael.selvidge@sentry.io

Launching October, 2024, with a major multichannel marketing campaign and many partner opportunities.

Open Source Pledge is organized by Sentry.

Image credit: xkcd.com